

Evening Post
Philadelphia, Saturday, December 14, 1852.

MEMO.

The Printing and Publishing Office of this newspaper is removed to No. 26 Carter's Alley, between 2d and 3d Streets, Philadelphia.

With this number, we issue a Statement, containing the report of the Directors of the United States Bank, on the subject of the public deposits, a document which will be used with interest by all parties. The same sheet contains also, a variety of other documents.

Persons who visit the extensive Mammal, in south Park street, will derive much amusement, in studying the character and habits of the rare animals there exhibited, from a present of the published numbers of the Book of Nature, a periodical issued monthly, in the city, in which we have before called the attention of our readers. Many of the animals in Fawcett and Cott's collection, have already been represented in the drawings published in this work, and accurately described in the contents, and interesting details of the work will furnish colors in the same manner. The writing master is always deeply interested by the addition of various curiosities and specimens illustrative of Natural History.

The Legislature of Pennsylvania organized, on Tuesday last week. In the Senate, Thomas Higginson, Esq., of Washington county, was elected Speaker; Henry Butler, Rep. Clark, and Mr. McLean, assistant Clerk. In the House, James Findley, Esq. of Wissahickon county, one of the Vice Presidents, was elected Speaker; Francis E. Smith, Clark, and Thomas J. Green, Assistant Clerk. Brief notices of the proceedings of both houses, will be found in the letters from our Harrisburg correspondence.

THE GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

We publish in this paper the message of Governor Wolf, presented to both branches of our State Legislature, on Wednesday week. It is an able written paper, and we doubt not, will offend most gratification to the citizens of the Commonwealth.

Gov. Wolf refers, with much pleasure, to the attention of the Eastern Pennsylvania, and to the great advantages which have been found to result from the system of statehood, with other states, of which he has been a member, in this institution.

The present session, we much hope, will be brief and written for years, may we consider, we think, seriously intended. Holiday confinement with labor, while it has been found to be the most humane punishment, which can possibly be inflicted, is, at the same time the most efficacious in reforming the criminal.

The prisoners in the eastern penitentiary perform their daily toil without coercion, and no greater punishment can be inflicted upon them by the warden, than to deprive them of the means of their daily labor.

The award of prizes which the Governor has given to the warden of that institution, is well deserved. In this community where his worth is known and appreciated, the opinion of the expressed of his fitness for the office, his kinship to the prisoners and his efficiency in the work, is fully secured.

A large portion of the message is devoted to the subject of Education, which is urged upon the attention of the General Assembly, with commendable zeal and ability. We are glad to find the Governor determined to persevere in his efforts to promote Universal Education, in this Commonwealth, notwithstanding the success which has attended his suggestions in former messages. His views on the subject are sound and convincing, and cannot fail, we think, of making a deep impression upon the minds of our representatives.

The subject of Mental Labor Education is also noted, and the value of institutions which unite labor with study, in the power of education, is well appreciated.

An opportunity of acquiring a general knowledge of the world, the library schools, clearly and strongly enforced. In the Governor's view, in these matters, we cordially concur in opinion, and shall heartily rejoice, if his suggestions meet the sanction which they unfeignedly deserve.

The inefficiency of the present militia system is noticed, and its radical reorganization recommended.

The very presented of the situation of our public works, is more flattering than we expected. It will be seen that the increase of tolls, during the past year, has been very large. Upon this fact, and that early in spring the whole line of communication between our city and Pittsburgh will be opened, the Governor deduces the belief that the revenue for 1853, of not fall short of a half million of dollars.

But the amount of tolls, at once, to relieve the people from the tax, will be small, and we must wait for the end of the year, upon ten millions of state debt.

The revised civil code—the multiplication of obstructive—state the privilege of voting by proxy in elections—the state loan, and the finance of the Commonwealth, are also subjects to which the Governor has called attention, and which we need scarcely notice here, the message itself being a document that will be generally read.

The December number of Littell's Museum, will be found to possess more than ordinary interest. A detailed engraving of the Capitol's House, is given in full page, and the picture of the interior of the Priory of the White Friars, is exceedingly interesting, to also the Empress of Korea, the Duchess of Lorraine, & La Vendée, Memoirs of Mrs. Inchbald, with others, otherwise, unimportant to particularists. The whole number is made up of the sum of many for magazines and reviews, and will afford especial satisfaction to those who prefer illustrations in a purely foreign character.

Carey, Lee & Blanchard, have just published, in a handsome octavo volume, Young's Elements of Plane and Spherical Trigonometry, revised and corrected by J. D. Williams, Esq. This is unquestionably the best work on the subject of Trigonometry, and has ever been published. It is written in plain and comprehensive language, an infinite variety of operations, definitions, examples and tables, tending to elucidate the subject, and showing the application of trigonometry to navigation and several departments, and is equally good in every respect to the original work in spherical trigonometry.

The other titles of which I speak, in last Friday's paper, are also good, and will be found in the same division of street book numbers, under one's name or monogram, as I have done in advertising his latest work. The author of the first is a man of great merit and knowledge, and the book is well worth the price of 25 dollars.

The second author, however, is a man of great merit, and deserves a place in the market. The third is a man of great merit, and deserves a place in the market. The fourth is a man of great merit, and deserves a place in the market. The fifth is a man of great merit, and deserves a place in the market.
